

Flexing Your Leadership Style

UNLOCKING YOUR LEADERSHIP POTENTIAL and EMBRACE ADAPTABILITY TO ELEVATE YOUR IMPACT

The purpose of this lesson is for participants to learn about the individual needs of employees and understand that these needs must be fulfilled in order for them to learn, grow and develop. Participants will practice using the Situational Leadership model and the four styles of that model to learn how to become more flexible in their leadership approach. Most managers use one preferred style for every employee no matter the situation. This can create frustration and an “over managed” or “under managed” type of work culture. By flexing more, leaders apply the right style for the situation allowing them to improve their team’s overall performance.

Who should attend this workshop?

- First-time Managers
- Senior Leaders
- Emerging Leaders
- Anyone who manages a team or project

Key Benefits:

Overall improved leadership skills, better communication, higher productivity

Learning Design:

Scenario-based learning, social learning with peer to peer interaction, and individual and group activities.

